

Le Monde:

Car le patriotisme est l'exact contraire du nationalisme : le nationalisme en est la trahison. En disant « nos intérêts d'abord et qu'importent les autres ! », on gomme ce qu'une Nation a de plus précieux, ce qui la fait vivre, ce qui la porte à être grande, ce qui est le plus important : ses valeurs morales.

Je le sais, les démons anciens resurgissent, prêts à accomplir leur œuvre de chaos et de mort. Des idéologies nouvelles manipulent des religions, prônent un obscurantisme contagieux. L'Histoire menace parfois de reprendre son cours tragique et de compromettre notre héritage de paix, que nous croyions avoir définitivement scellé du sang de nos ancêtres.

...

Ruiner cet espoir par fascination pour le repli, la violence et la domination serait une erreur dont les générations futures nous feraient, à juste titre, porter la responsabilité historique. Ici, aujourd'hui, affrontons dignement le jugement de l'avenir

...

Additionnons nos espoirs au lieu d'opposer nos peurs !

The Times - "Nationalism is a betrayal of patriotism. By saying 'our interests first' ... we erase what a nation hold dearest ... its moral values." The world is threatened with "fascination for withdrawal, violence or domination"

The BBC - "By saying 'our interests first and never mind the others' you stamp out the most precious thing a nation has - its moral values," he said.

The Independent - " "The old demons are rising again, ready to complete their task of chaos and of death" "Patriotism is the exact opposite of nationalism.

"In saying, 'Our interests first, whatever happens to the others', you erase the most precious thing a nation can have, that which makes it live, that which causes it to be great and that which is most important: its moral values."

"Ruining this hope with a fascination for withdrawal, violence or domination would be a mistake for which future generations

The Guardian - " "Patriotism is the exact opposite of nationalism. Nationalism is a betrayal of patriotism. In saying 'our interests first, whatever happens to the others,' you erase the most precious thing a nation can have, that which makes it live, that which causes it to be great and that which is most important: its moral values.

"Old demons are resurfacing. History sometimes threatens to take its tragic course again and compromise our hope of peace. Let us vow to prioritise peace over everything."

"Let us build our hopes rather than playing our fears against each other."

The Washington Post - " a "betrayal of patriotism" and warning against "old demons coming back to wreak chaos and death." the "universal values" of France, he said, and to reject the "selfishness of nations only looking after their own interests. Because patriotism is exactly the opposite of nationalism." ... " "By putting our own interests first, with no regard for others, we erase the very thing that a nation holds dearest, and the thing that keeps it alive: its moral values," Macron said.

He denounced fringe ideologies that have become more mainstream, warping religious beliefs and setting loose extremist forces on a "sinister course once again that could undermine the legacy of peace we thought we had forever sealed."

Foxnews - "Patriotism is the exact opposite of nationalism," Macron said at the solemn event, as Trump looked on stone-faced. "Nationalism is a betrayal of patriotism."

He added: "In saying 'Our interests first, whatever happens to the others,' you erase the most precious thing a nation can have, that which makes it live, that which causes it to be great and that which is most important: Its moral values.

"I know there are old demons which are coming back to the surface," Macron continued. "They are ready to wreak chaos and death. History sometimes threatens to take its sinister course once again."

NY Times - " "Patriotism is the exact opposite of nationalism," Mr. Macron said in a speech on a dreary, rain-soaked day. "Nationalism is a betrayal of patriotism by saying, 'our interest first, who cares about the others?' " " Mr. Macron warned that "the old demons" have been resurfacing and declared that "giving into the fascination for withdrawal, isolationism, violence and domination would be a grave error that future generations would very rightly make us responsible for."
